Make a Gallery for your Pet

What better time is there to introduce your pet to art than now?

Through lockdown your pets have had a lot to put up with! Endless people wanting to take them for walks, humans never giving them a moment's peace- Its definitely time to treat your pet to a new, exciting experience. After all Staying in is the new going out!

You will need:

- Cardboard
- Double sided or masking tape
- Junk modling - feathers/ pipecleaners/ cardboard tubes/ foil
- coloured card
- your artwork
- snacks and bedding for your pet

First think about the size of your pet. A cat or dog will need lots off big cardboard and a bigger gallery whilst a hamster will need just a shoe box. The picture above is a cat gallery made with a really big box cut open. The picture below is a shoe box gallery for a hamster. Think about the kind of places your pet likes- does your pet like lots of room to explore or do they prefer, tubes, ramps and hidey holes?

Include artworks that your pet will be interested in. Our kitten Nita really likes playing with feathers on pipe cleaners so we made a 3D Artwork for her. Scooby the hamster really likes apples so here is an apple sculpture.

What kind of seating area might your pet like? Can you include some snacks? What are their hobbies? squeaking toys? finding interesting smells. Think of ways to include your pet's interests in your design.

Remember to include your own artwork too. Have you made any nice pictures of your pet? Perhaps your pet might like some shiny foil to see their reflection in?

We'd love to meet your pets and see your pet galleries- so please share yours on the Put your Heart into Art Event page
